Who We Are

I Did Not Know What To Say™ was created in April 2009 as a platform to inspire and provide resources to people that want to help their friends and family through the grieving process. Our website features an Inspiration section that provides sample sympathy notes that people have submitted to our website. Our Thoughtful Gifts section offers ideas beyond sending flowers. Our Blog features on-going inspirational ideas and resources. We also feature many resources on our website including: Helpful Books, Grief Support Resources, Cancer Support Resources, Health & Wellness Ideas and Planning for a Life Without You™.

Why you should advertise with us!

I Did Not Know What To Say™ markets to individuals who are interested in learning more about grief resources and finding ways to assist their friends and family through the grieving process as well as those looking for a special memorial gift. We advertise our website through search engines, Google paid advertising, Blogs, Twitter and Facebook as well as through link exchanges with grief support organizations.

By placing your organization's name and services in front of our audience, you will be reaching consumers that are ideally focused on your product or service.

Advertising Opportunities

Associates

Associates are organizations and companies that share our vision and add value to our website community. Be a part of our Link Exchange Associates Program and you will receive a free link on our website. All you need to do to participate is to include a link to our website (see link below) and we will gladly include your text link on our site.

Please include the following link on your website:
